SCHOOL REPORT.

Annually, as we approach the fifteenth of February, the school board are called on to render their account of another fiscal year and, in addition to the statistical report, with a few suggestions, we submit the following report:

We have retained in most of our schools teachers of last year, to the satisfaction of both scholars and parents; in one of the others for two terms. We think our schools in town are very good, considering the salaries paid. We would especially commend our teachers for the good order they have maintained in the schools, particularly that of whispering, of which we did not see any.

Mr. Sanborn, early in the season, procured large dictionaries with which the schools were supplied. Some of our schools are very small, therefore we have tried to economize and have paid small salaries. Good teachers are looking for better pay, so in the future, in order to procure them, we must comply with their demands.

Teaching is a profession calling for learning, intelligence and training. We ought to appreciate the skilful, careful work done in our public schools. There is much more than book knowledge in schools. In them the children receive ideas of duty, right, liberty, justice, law and progress, which they would not get at home or on the streets.

Men are thinking and writing on what and how to teach the child; school text-books and methods of teaching are being continually improved.

We have partly expended the money raised for repairs on the Center schoolhouse, and why we have not expended the whole amount was because we did not have enough to complete the room as it should be, so left off where we could commence again. We have partly sheathed the walls and put in green lithoplates for example boards and a large cupboard for books. Now, the room, to make it complete, needs new seats, new floor and the sheathing finished. This will do for the inside. The outside, any one from the road can see what that and all other schoolhouses in town need.

We thank the taxpayers of the town for their generous response when called upon for money to make repairs, and hope they will continue to do so for a few years till our schoolhouses in town will compare favorably with our dwellings.

Mr. J. L. Sanborn, our associate and chairman, was early in the school year taken away. Thereby the town and schools lost an earnest friend and worker. He had the interest of each school and scholar at heart and plans for their progress, which would have been carried out undoubtedly had he lived.

H. B. LANGLEY,
F. B. SHAW,
School Board.
